CONTEXT 1/2 - PORTER'S FIVE FORCES

ANALYSE OF TSC'S ENVIRONMENT (BUSINESS)

CONTEXT 2/2 - SWOT

ANALYSE OF TSC'S ENVIRONMENT (MARKETING)

Strengths

Product: TSC delivers an innovative solution that helps its clients achieve superior operational performance

Stakeholders: partners and staff are highly committed, particularly for communications. Suppliers, both on the product side and the services side, are open to partner up for co-marketing advocacy

Weaknesses

Size: TSC faces a competition that is way more powerful

Resources: TSC's marketing capacity is limited by scarce resources (human, budget, suppliers) and the absence of commitment from Skoda G

Transition challenge: TSC is engineering-centric, therefore lacks depth in customer-centric material (ex. website)

Opportunities

ETCS deployment: all across Europe (country-level planning), which creates demand for the ATP market (+ elsewhere in the world)

Appeal: TSC gained awareness thanks to record-time certification. The rail community is curious, supportive and started to engage. TSC is tightly associated with ETCS and is present everywhere ETCS is hot (BE, CZ, PL +AU)

Perception: TSC is liked, perceived as a dynamic innovator, with community members advocating on its behalf

Threats

Disregard: the cultural mismatch with its parent group, and their current focus on major rebranding limit strategic attention and long-term clarity for TSC as an asset

Uncertainty: it is a cautious, conservative market, with long sales cycles where proof of concept and references are required. Trust and credibility take a long time to gain yet TSC needs commercial wins now

PROBLEM TO SOLVE

From a strict marketing standpoint, and taking into account TSC's current position as a young player with limited scale, the challenge can be framed to:

Where should Marketing focus its limited capacity to help convert appeal into commitment?

GOAL AND OBJECTIVES

Reminder: business objectives 2026*

- Take new orders
- Deliver while maintaining current level of satisfaction (87%)
- Expand our portfolio

*Dec 2025

Goal for Marketing

What do we want to do that solves the problem statement above?

Focus Marketing efforts on a realistic selection of segments that suits TSC's position as a new and innovative player on the market, balanced between maximum ROI in awareness, and structuring our capabilities towards lead generation

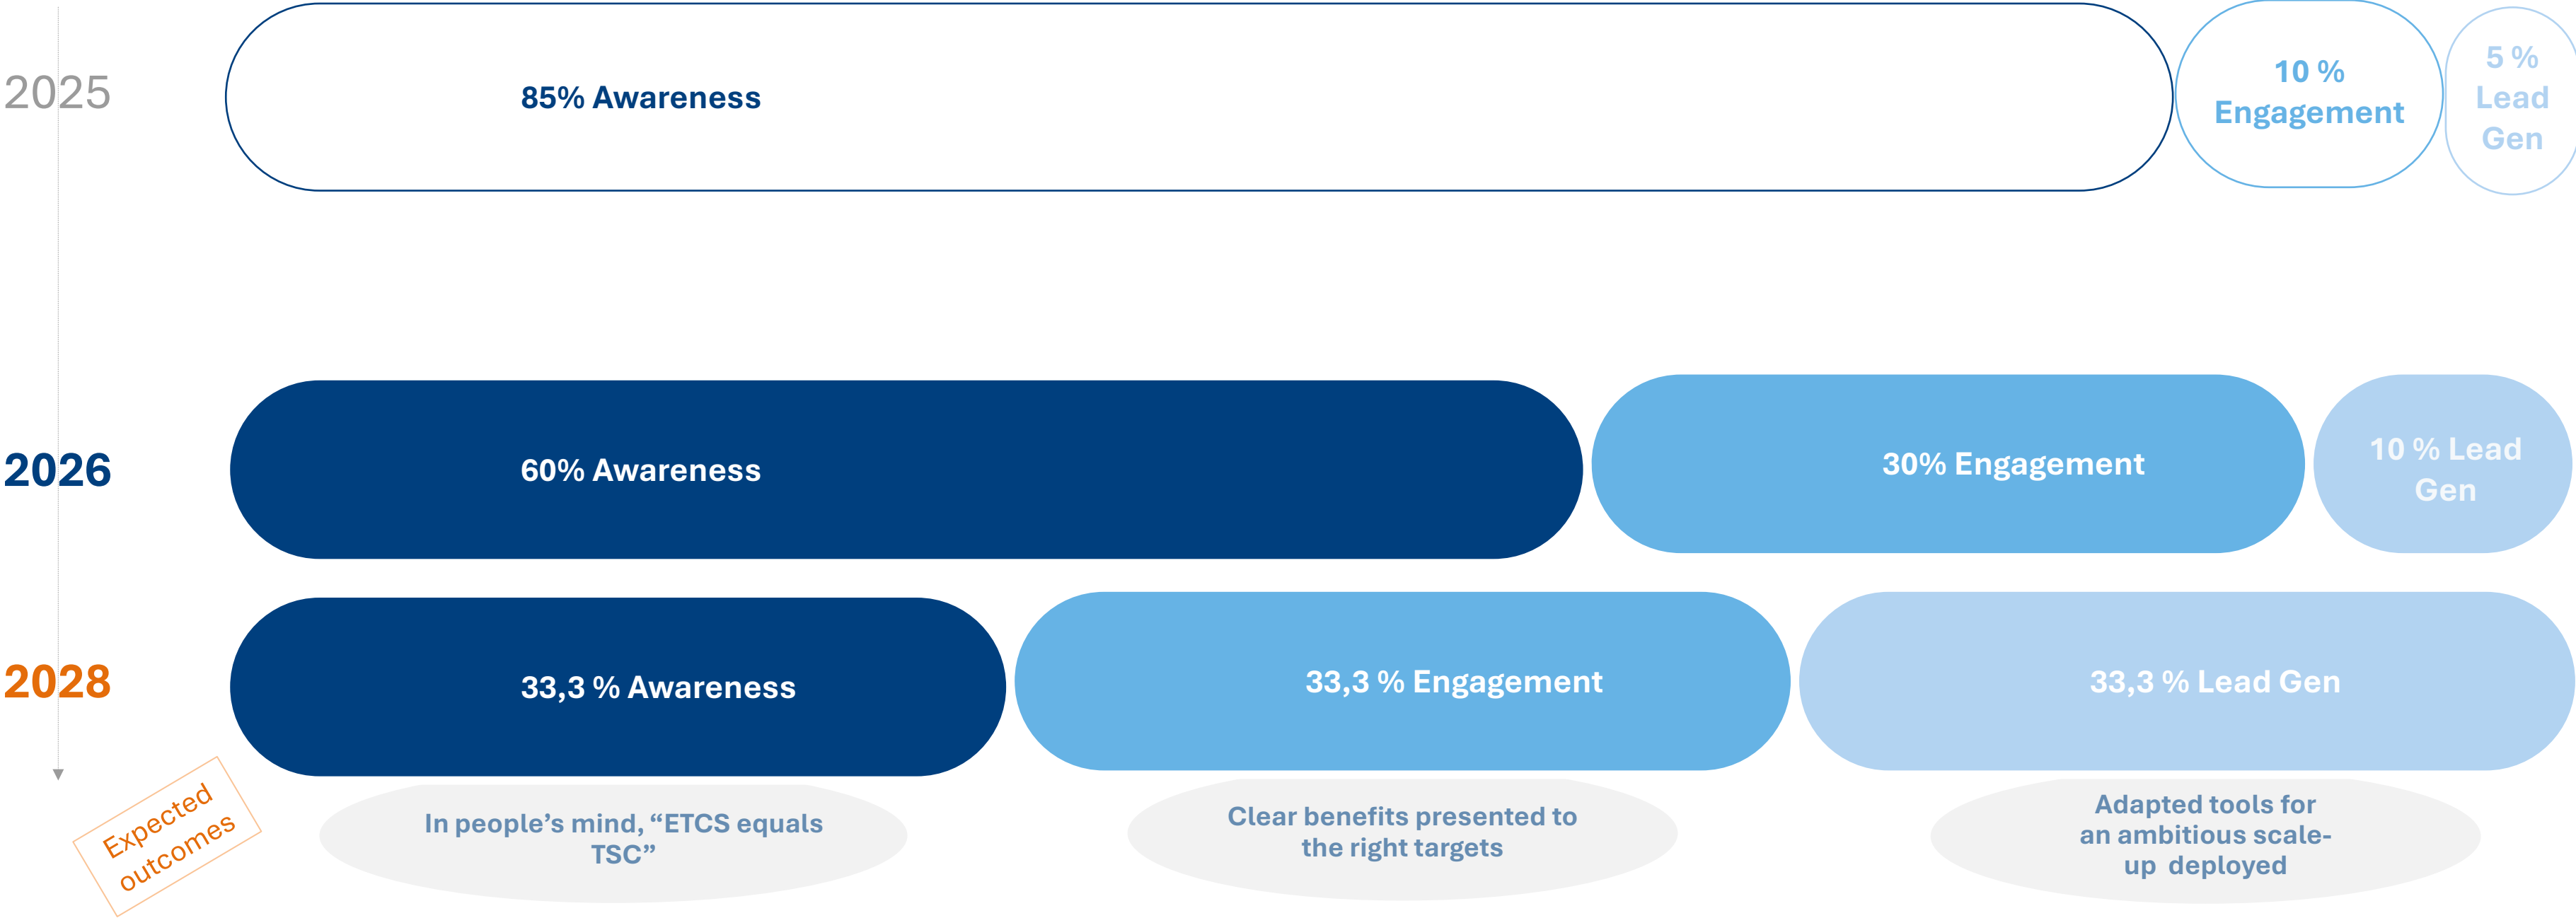

Objectives

With clear objectives we can focus on the right things

1. Make the product understandable and credible - by making its benefits tangible for the community
2. Adapt marketing messages to the right audiences and decision-makers - aligned with their decision criteria and expectations
3. Build marketing foundations for scale - to support long-term effectiveness and lead generation

BALANCE OF OBJECTIVES

Starting to advance all contacts into our sales pipeline takes time. Thus, we need a vision for our marketing

VALUE PROPOSITION

TRANSLATING BUSINESS STRATEGY INTO CUSTOMER-RELEVANT VALUE.
BRINGING US FOCUS, COHERENCE, AND CREDIBILITY.

Target Who are the target audiences?		Railway fleet operators, manufacturers, leasers and integrators for either freight, passengers or infrastructure
Need What important issues do they have?		- They need an on-board signalling system (onboard safety system) to be allowed to legally operate, sell or lease their vehicles - They need the lowest-possible cost solution - both CAPEX & OPEX - They need in many cases public financing - They need it at some point, that point depends on regulatory pressure
